Gustavo Lobo, 92, Commodities Executive

Gustavo F. Lobo Jr., a leading commodities executive for 57 years, died on Dec. 28 at the Andrus Retirement Community in Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. Mr. Lobo, a resident of Bay Hill, Fla., was 92.

Mr. Lobo became president of Olavarria & Company, a New York sugar commodities trading house, in 1929. He remained president for 29 years, and served as chairman from 1958 to 1967. Olavarria was the New York affiliate of Galban Lobo, a trading company that during the 1940's and 1950's controlled more than 50 percent of the sugar crop in pre-

Castro Cuba and 25 percent of the crop in Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

Mr. Lobo became vice president of Czarnikow-Rionda & Company in 1967, after a reorganization of Olavarria after its bankruptcy in 1964, and left to start his own firm, Lobo-Kane in 1971. He retired in 1986.

Mr. Lobo, who was born in Mexico City, attended Princeton University and graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a bachelor of science degree in 1927. He was a member of the major New York and Chicago commodities exchanges, and he served as president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange from 1954 to 1956.

He is survived by his daughter, Patricia Lobo Aitcheson of Yonkers; four grandchildren, and one great-grandchild. His wife, Vera Hinchy, died in 1988.
